Archive Service Budget 2016/17.

Members from Neath Port Talbot CBC supported by other Members of the Committee expressed their extreme disappointment and anger regarding the lack of consultation of the proposed budget cut to the service in Neath.
18 2016/17 REVENUE BUDGET.

K Collis presented the report of the Director of Place which gave details of the Joint Archive Service Revenue Budget for 2016/2017 and the reserves held by the Joint Archive Service, which was submitted for information only. The detailed original budget was shown in Appendix A.

He detailed the £36,000 reduction from the Archives budget and outlined the impact on the staffing and service particularly at Neath. The detailed revised budget was shown in Appendix B. Further discussions with Neath Antiquarian Society will be needed to establish how the service will operate once the staff reductions were in place.

The table in the report showed the estimated position of the Archive Reserves as at 31 March 2016.

RESOLVED that the report be noted.

Report of the County Archivist
West Glamorgan Archives Committee
17 June 2016

The purpose of this report is to outline the work of the Archive Service during the period March to May 2016

1. West Wales Regional Archives Partnership

Funded by the Welsh Government, a further piece of consultancy work has taken place to develop the West Wales Regional Archives Partnership proposal to RIBA Stage 0. This piece of work is still in draft form and therefore cannot yet be shared with members. In summary, the report identifies what the physical requirements would be for housing the collections of West Glamorgan Archive Service and the Richard Burton Archives Swansea University in a shared facility; it looks at different options for either a new-build or conversion of existing buildings; and investigates different models of governance for the West Wales partnership. It is important to note that while the report provides an indicative building cost for a new-build and conversion, it does not specify a proposed location.

Carmarthenshire Archives Service, which has recently announced that it intends to build a £2m extension to Carmarthen Library to house its archive collections, remains an arms-length partner in the discussions.

2. Commissioning

As part of the Sustainable Swansea programme, Swansea Council is implementing a number of savings-producing strategies over the next three years, including assessing whether New Models of Delivery, partnerships and collaborations will deliver services for less. This work is taking place alongside significant in-house transformation to meet financial and service demands with reduced resources, including a Senior Management Review, digital solutions and new ways of working.

Cultural Services has been one of the first of Swansea’s services to go through a Commissioning Review, which involved assessing the benefits and impact of its services in meeting corporate priorities; whether other models exist elsewhere in terms of delivery; and what outcomes would wish to be achieved if this was a route that proved viable. The review concluded that across the UK there are examples of independent organisations running a range of cultural services, from leisure trusts through to private/public partnerships and therefore Swansea’s Cabinet approved a process to test assumptions about the future management and governance of the services within a reduced financial envelope. A Prior Information Notice (PIN) was published on 23 February, which included information on all the services, with the exception of the Libraries, and external organisations were invited to express an initial interest in running them. It is important to note that this process did not constitute a procurement exercise.

While it was included in the PIN along with Swansea’s other cultural services (being clearly designated as a joint service which is aligned to the corporate objectives of both parent authorities), the Archive Service was caveated as currently subject to exploration of the benefits of a regional partnership. Only in the event that this proved to not be a sound option to realise benefits for the joint service, would alternatives be considered.

At this stage, officers are not proposing alternative governance for the Archive Service, but will continue to explore the models available within the West Wales Partnership work. At the last meeting of the Archives Committee, members requested more information on the implications of the commissioning process. Members who seek further information on the specific issues round commissioning for archive services are referred to The National Archives guidance ‘In a Spin: Guidance on Spinning out Local Archive Services’ (2014) at http://www.nationalarchives.gov.uk/documents/archives/in-a-spin.pdf

3. 2016/17 business action plan

The business action plan for the Service for 2016/17 is attached at Appendix 1.

4. Neath Antiquarian Society Archives reduced opening hours

As a consequence of the 2016/17 budget saving discussed in the last two meetings, a reduction in the advertised opening hours from four days to two days a week at the Neath Antiquarian Society Archives will come into effect on 1 August 2016. Public access to and curatorial care of the Neath Antiquarian Society (NAS) archive collections will be maintained with the presence of a WGAS archivist on a Monday.

The second day will be devoted to family history and will not provide access to the NAS archives, although the NAS has indicated that it may provide access to their collections by appointment only on a further two days a week. Although this reduction in public availability of the collections is significant, it is based on a rational analysis of their current levels of use. In 2015/16, only 208 documents from the NAS collections were issued to researchers in Neath, compared to 10,041 documents issued in Swansea over the same time-period, both facilities operating on four day a week opening.

Two members of archive staff have taken voluntary redundancy as part of this process taking the total staff complement of the Archive Service to 8 Full Time Equivalent.
5. Use of the Service

COLLECTION POLICY

Identity of the Archive Service

West Glamorgan Archive Service is the archive authority for the Councils of the City and County of Swansea and Neath Port Talbot County Borough, acting through the West Glamorgan Archives Committee. It is based at Civic Centre, Oystermouth Road, Swansea, and operates a subsidiary service point at Neath Mechanics’ Institute, 4 Church Place, Neath.

The Archive Service’s mission is the preservation and development of its archive collections, to safeguard our documentary heritage and to enable research in order to further our collective knowledge. The Service is committed to providing information and the opportunity to engage with archives to everybody.

Authority of the Archive Service to collect

West Glamorgan Archive Service conforms and is subject to all legislation applying to local authority archive services in England and Wales, including in particular section 60 of the Local Government (Wales) Act, 1994 and the 1962 and 1972 Local Government Acts.

It is appointed by The National Archives as a repository for locally deposited public records under section 4(1) of the Public Records Act, 1958, including records of the Coroner’s Court; the Courts of Quarter and Petty Sessions; H.M. Prison Service; H.M. Customs and Excise and the National Coal Board.

It is recognised by the Master of the Rolls as an official repository for manorial and tithe records under the Law of Property Act, 1922, the Law of Property (Amendment) Act, 1924 and the Tithe Act, 1936.

It is recognised by the Representative Body of the Church in Wales as a repository for parochial records of the Diocese of Swansea and Brecon under the terms of agreements of 1976, 1993 and 2006.

West Glamorgan Archive Service aspires to achieve and maintain the Archives Accreditation Standard.

Geographical scope of the collection policy

The geographical area served by the Archive Service is contiguous with the boundaries of the preserved county of West Glamorgan, which are those of the former administrative county (1974-1996). It serves the City and County of Swansea and the County Borough of Neath Port Talbot. The Archive Service receives and collects records relating only to this geographical area, with due regard to the principle that the integrity of archive collections which contain material primarily relating to West Glamorgan, but with some parts of the collection relating to areas outside the county, should normally be preserved.

The Archive Service will not accept records primarily relating to areas outside the former county boundary of West Glamorgan, unless there are special circumstances and the agreement of any other interested archive authority has been sought. Such offers of material will be passed to the most appropriate archive service for consideration. In the case of a dispute between the Archive Service and another repository over the most appropriate custodian for a particular collection, the advice of The National Archives as a neutral arbiter will be taken.

The Archive Service does not collect archives from corporate bodies and institutions which already possess a recognised archive repository (such as Swansea University and the University of Wales Trinity St David) without the express permission of that repository.

Subject scope of the collection policy

The Archive Service collects archives as defined by the National Council on Archives in 1995 ‘Archives are those records accumulated by a natural process in the conduct of affairs of any kind, public or private, corporate or individual, which have been preserved because they continue to be significant for administrative or historical purposes’ (A National Archives Policy for the United Kingdom, 1995) and as defined by statute, including the Law of Property Act, 1922, the Law of Property (Amendment) Act, 1924, the Tithe Act, 1936, the Public Records Acts, 1958 and 1967, the Local Government Acts, 1962 and 1972 and the Local Government (Wales) Act, 1994. It receives archives by way of gift or deposit from individuals and institutions, subject to its terms of deposit, or through transfer from its parent authorities. In exceptional circumstances, it is able to purchase archival items of local importance.

The Archive Service does not seek to acquire published works relating to the area of West Glamorgan, other than as additions to its searchroom reference library, or where such works form an integral part of an archive collection. Published works not required for the searchroom library which are offered to the Archive Service will be directed to the appropriate library service of the two parent authorities. Similarly, the Archive Service does not normally collect newspapers, which are collected by the two library services of its parent authorities.

The Archive Service does not collect artefacts or archaeological finds, which are most appropriately donated to or deposited with the museums services of its parent authorities.

Photographs, sound recordings, film (and similar formats) and digital resources relating to West Glamorgan are collected where these can be regarded as a primary source for historical research, subject to the provisos in the paragraph below about the most appropriate storage facility.

Physical scope of the collection policy

The Archive Service collects records relating to its geographical area in whatever format they may exist, parchment, paper, CD-ROM, film, cassette tape etc. However, it reserves the right to deposit archive material for which it does not possess the correct storage facilities with a specialist repository on behalf of the depositor, or as part of the conditions of acceptance of a gift.
Intellectual scope of the collection policy

The Archive Service acts on the basis that all material offered to it is done so in good faith, i.e. that the donor or depositor has a valid title as owner or custodian of the records offered. Should this prove not to be the case, the records will be returned to their rightful owner.

The Archive Service reserves the right to refuse any item or items which it does not consider to be worthy of permanent preservation.

It also reserves the right to appraise and weed collections to ensure that the retained records are of historical value. This will be done with the knowledge and consent of the donor or depositor. Records not considered worthy of permanent preservation will either be returned to the donor/depositor, transferred to a more appropriate repository or confidentially destroyed, depending on the expressed wishes of the donor/depositor.

The Archive Service reserves the right to conduct a periodic review of its archive collections and to de-accession material which does not meet its criteria for permanent preservation. No collections will be destroyed without the permission of the donor or depositor or their successors.

The Archive Service makes public details of new accessions through its quarterly reports to the West Glamorgan Archives Committee, through its annual report published online on the Archive Service website and through its list of annual accessions sent to The National Archives. Finding aids to the listed items will, where appropriate, be disseminated to the widest possible public audience using all technological means at its current disposal.
